Electrical equipment

Terra - Groundbox

NEW

Every device in the household has the potential to introduce interference in the high-frequency range, which can be a potential disruptor for clean music enjoyment. However, often the fault lies within the hi-fi chain itself, which can generate unwanted humming. This is usually due to a missing or incorrect grounding. The new grounding system „Terra“ by Clearaudio is our solution to consolidate all necessary groundings at one point and leave possible ground loops in the past. The star-shaped endpoint prevents any ground loops, and the sand-filled casing additionally protects against vibrations and interference. Through a special grounding plug, the device is grounded via the power outlet but is not directly connected to the electricity.

On the back of the „Terra“ grounding device, there are three connections for direct grounding (grounded) and three connections with potential difference (ground lifted).

Additionally, six grounding cables are included in the delivery.

Small device, big impact - with its 91 millimeter diameter, the black or silver anodized housing effortlessly complements the aesthetics of any system.

Power Terminal

NEW

High-quality power strips are often neglected in hi-fi and home theater systems and electromagnetic and high-frequency disturbances can affect the quality of playback from the very beginning.

Clearaudio offers an all-in-one solution with the Power Terminal. The power strip offers a total of seven slots (1x 50W for turntable motors, 2x 800W for power amplifiers, 2x 200W for analog devices, 2x200W for digital devices), which are also individually grounded in a star shape.

The Power Terminal can be switched on and off via a central illuminated switch. The connection to the power grid is made via a shielded power cable. Thanks to a DC blocker, phase control, surge and lightning protection, your hi-fi system is safely and cleanly supplied with power.

The power strip is offered in black or silver anodized colors and can be mounted either vertically or horizontally (on the wall or the stand of your system).

Cables

clearline pure silver

45 years of experience stand behind the well-known and proven technology of Clearaudio cables, as demonstrated by our previous design of the OCOS cable system, which is now used by Dynaudio. Now we have taken on a new challenge of signal reproduction with a special silver cable design. The new clearline pure silver cable is perfectly suited for all high-end setups, regardless of whether they are analog or digital, for perfect system completion without compromise. Due to the high cost of raw materials, only a limited number of this anniversary cable is pre-produced.
